LONDON PRESS IS PLEASED AT REPLY

British Newspapers Believe That Cause of Allies Has Been Greatly Strengthened in Neutral Countries—Particularly the United States—The Comments.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, Jan. 12.—Unanimous approval was given by the British press today to the Entente's reply to President Wilson's note.

In view of the evasive answer returned by Germany it is felt that the cause of the Allies has been greatly strengthened in neutral countries, particularly the United States.

Following so closely upon the inspiring speech of Premier Lloyd George, the Allies' note has aroused a widespread optimism throughout the nation.

The view held here is that only one thought now animates the Entente Powers in their mighty struggle. This is the thought of victory over militarism.

The Daily Graphic in commenting upon that part of the note referring to the restoration of territories, gives this interpretation:

Alsace and Lorraine shall go to France; Transylvania shall go to Rumania; Austria-Hungary; Bohemia shall be constituted into an independent kingdom; the Turks shall be expelled from Europe; the Armenians, Syrians and Arabs shall be removed from Turkish rule; Poland shall be given back to Russia and the kingdoms of Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro and Rumania shall be restored.

The document is regarded as one of the frankest in the annals of diplomatic literature. It is declared in some circles that it even exceeds the request in President Wilson's note that the warring nations make known their views on peace that should furnish the ground-work preliminary to a conference.

That the people of the United States will give their approval to the document is accepted here as a foregone conclusion.

The Daily Telegraph, in its editorial comment upon the reply, dwells upon the contrast between it and the German answer. Says this newspaper:

"Making every allowance for the neutrality of thought and the results of the German propaganda we do not see how any American citizen who is not definitely a German partisan, can fail to be convinced that the Allies' aims in any particular.

"What is there in any of the Allies' objects which is not in complete conformity with the just principles which have hitherto guided the policy of the United States and all other free, civilized countries?

"What inheritor of the Declaration of Independence is opposed to the purpose particularized?

The Allies have made as full a profession of their aims in this war as was ever made in history. There is not among their objects one of which they have not reason to be proud, and in that assurance they challenge the judgment of the American people and the neutral world."

The attitude taken by the Daily Telegraph is that the demands of the Allies are mild and that not one of them is excessive.

"The note embodies just such a statement as was needed," says the Daily News. "Whether peace is obtainable on these terms is for Germany to indicate. The present note suggests that the time has not yet come. But at least the Allies have closed no door. Their position is clear and unassailable and we believe that nowhere will the justice of their cause be denied."

The Post takes an uncompromising attitude. It says:

"President Wilson being far removed from the war both in body and mind, perhaps failed to realize how insulting was the suggestion that the Allies should negotiate with an enemy who was desecrating their territory and trampling their national rights. As the United States asked for specific terms, the Allies have been specific."

The Times declares that "the peace which the Allies desire is peace founded upon the doctrines of liberty, justice and inviolable fidelity to international engagements which Americans have always cherished and revered."

The Express, Chronicle, Star and other papers all comment in the same strain.

The position of the Allies is now clear.

"We have not closed the door to peace. We have made known to the world our terms. If the German Allies will consent to meet them the war will end at once. Otherwise the conflict will go on. If President Wilson desires to take other steps he will receive courteous attention from the Entente Powers."

Pastor Called to Philadelphia.

The Rev. P. S. Baringer, of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street, left today for Philadelphia, where he will attend the funeral of his sister-in-law on Saturday. A supply from Philadelphia will occupy the pulpit at the local church on Sunday.

Vo City Treasurer Appointed Yet.

Up to noon today Mayor Canfield had appointed no one city treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the appointment of F. H. Doremus to the city clerkship. It is expected an appointment will be made shortly.

WILSON'S WAY IS CLEAR FOR PEACE

Administration Officials So Interpret Entente Note But There Are Other Views—Real Conditions in Germany Led British Military Leaders to Be More Receptive.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 12.—The way is clear for President Wilson to continue his efforts toward peace. That is the interpretation put on the Entente note today by administration officials and neutral diplomats here.

The terms stated in the Entente note are only slightly greater demands than were forecasted. The statement in the note that the Entente Allies believe that peace is impossible at the present moment because of the impossibility of adequate assurances of "reparation, restitution and such guarantees to which they are entitled," is regarded as the greatest check the moves toward peace have received.

Information reaching here today through official sources, but informally, was to the effect that the note would have been a more definite rejection of the idea of peace at this time had it not been for the counsel of the military chiefs of the Entente governments. The military leaders, it was said, stated flatly that it was entirely erroneous to suppose that Germany and her allies were near starvation or in present danger of being crushed. This fact, it was said, did more to temper the tone of the Entente note than any other.

The German note to neutral countries, expected to reach here today, officials believe, takes much of the "punch" out of the Entente communication. It flatly puts the blame for the beginning of the war on its enemies, reiterates its absolute sincerity in its original peace offer, questions the sincerity of its enemies, states that the war aims of the Central Powers have been attained already, and winds up forever the attempt to secure a peace discussion through direct diplomatic exchanges between the belligerents.

The effect of this note, so far as this country is concerned, in the opinion of some high administration officials and the majority of neutral diplomats in Washington, is to put upon the shoulders of the president the whole responsibility of any further move toward peace. That this move will be made is morally certain, although its exact form cannot be forecasted with accuracy.

Still open—the efforts of President Wilson to reconcile the widely divergent terms of the two groups of belligerents—the possibility of Germany instituting a ruthless U-boat warfare was revived today.

If the president's efforts are rewarded only with failure, it is frankly feared here that the element in Germany in favor of so-called "ruthless submarine warfare" will gain control.

Proceeding on the theory that England and her allies can be defeated only through use of this weapon, this element, once in control, will inaugurate an under-sea campaign which, it is feared, must inevitably drag the United States closer to the brink of hostilities. That is the confidential view of the matter taken by many of the president's advisers in the state department and the senate.

WHAT "1-17-17" MEANS.

Various Interpretations May Be Given These Mystifying Numbers.

"What is 1-17-17?" has been asked by a large number of people during the past few weeks and it remained for the Kingston Shriners' Association to come to the rescue and explain that it was the first month, seventeenth day and year 1917, and that the figures stood for the date of the big Shriners' ball at the armory. However, another meaning has been placed upon the date now.

On the big show windows of Rose-Gorman-Rose, Inc., on North Front street is the meaning of the figures and judging from the display it means magnificent evening gowns. The window display includes several of the finest evening gowns ever shown in Kingston and it is a gentle reminder both of the date of the Shriners' dance and also that the ladies may secure appropriate costumes at the store for the evening of the dance.

Big two foot letters announce the date, 1-17-17 and in the window are several models clothed in the most gorgeous of silken gowns while in the background are several other hand-dresses spread out for the inspection of the public as samples of some of the fine line carried by the firm.

DEVIL NO FOOL; FOOLS FOLLOW HIM

Said Evangelist Peacock Methodist Night at Tabernacle—People Have Wrong Idea of His Satanic Majesty—Satan's Wiles Exposed.

"The devil is no fool, but he has got a lot of fools tagging after him," Evangelist L. K. Peacock hurled at his hearers Methodist Night—Thursday evening—at the Delaware Avenue Tabernacle. The members of Trinity M. E. Church were joined by the members of the Port Ewen and Connelly churches and marched in a body to the tabernacle forming the largest delegation of the week, exceeding in numbers the delegation of Baptists on Tuesday and of Presbyterians on Wednesday.

This evening at 6 o'clock the girls and women employed in stores, factories, schools, offices and so forth will meet at Y. M. C. A. for supper and after supper will march in a body to the tabernacle. There will be no charge for the supper.

There will be no service on Saturday afternoon at the tabernacle but that evening the evangelist will sing, and the evangelist will speak.

False Prophets.

Evangelist Peacock took as his text 2nd Peter 2:1, "But there come false prophets also among the people, as among you also there shall be false teachers, who shall secretly bring in destructive heresies, denying even the Master that bought them, bringing upon themselves swift destruction."

From the time God placed our first parents in the Garden of Eden down to the present time there has been conflict between Satan and the people. He does not all the time confine himself to foul dens of iniquity, nor in saloons and gambling dens.

Devil is Slick and Smooth.

The devil is the smoothest gentleman you ever looked at. We have been taught to look upon him as one with long horns and cloven feet, but instead of that he is the slickest, smoothest, best dressed, most educated, and refined. He knows how to travel in highest society as well as down among the dregs of mankind.

He wears a high silk hat and carries a cane and tips his hat to you pretty women.

Hoof and Mouth Disease.

I remember some time ago that throughout the country the hoof and mouth disease among cattle was prevalent, but there was nothing the matter with the devil's hoof and mouth, so he doesn't come under that head. He is clever for he never presents to you the thousands that have been ruined by his imps.

Does Not Tell After Effect.

Satan does not tell us what will happen after we have served him a while, and of the shame and degradation that follows. No he does not tell you of the after effect.

Uses Persuasion.

The devil tries to persuade people that God is the worst enemy they have. He tries to tell you people that the past who served God are back numbers, and that the leaders of today are the ones who do not serve God. Look over the record of the great men of the world and see if that is so. I don't believe it is.

Raps College.

The speaker said that if he had any children that he expected to send to college he would look the college over very carefully before he placed his child in it, as the great majority of children come back from college drunkards and unbelievers. The devil sends out false prophets and teachers to mislead the people and some of them you will find in our college faculties.

Up to Unbeliever to Prove.

Again the devil through his false prophets and teachers is trying to intimate to the people that there is no God, that the Bible is not the inspired word of God, and that Christ was not born as the Bible says he is. My friends I don't have to prove to you that God created the world; that God made man and breathed into him the breath of life. Friends I don't have to prove to you that the Bible is not the word of God. No it is up to the people who don't believe those facts to prove it.

Others Think For Us.

These false prophets and teachers who are all the time trying to tear down and not build up have not hurt God any, they have only shaken the faith of a few people. The great trouble in the world is that we don't do enough of our own thinking but we let others do it for us. That's why a lot of people doubt the inspiration of the Bible.

Consequences of Sin.

These false prophets and teachers sin not only themselves, but lead others to sin, and if you read the rest of the chapter from which my text is taken you will read of the punishment that is meted out.

If we lead others into sin we are responsible for their sins. It's an impossibility for any one to live for himself alone, and so we have to answer to God not only for our own sins, but the sins of the people we have led into sin.

Needs No Defence.

The speaker said the Bible needs no defence from any man. It has stood the test of the centuries and will stand long after we have passed on. All efforts to destroy it in the past proved futile and today the Bible stands more powerful than it ever did before and there are more people studying it. Christ needs no champion, he stands before us the Savior of mankind.

A Personal Devil.

I believe that people are possessed of the devil as in bygone days. I believe in a personal devil. You say there is no devil. If there is not a devil there is a lot of devils; I'll put it that way. Look at the sin and the crime in the world today and yet you tell me there is no evil influence at work in the world. I don't believe you.

One Standard Necessary.

Did you ever hear a fellow say: "I would not get drunk in Kingston, but if I was in New York I would get drunk and so on?" Did you ever hear a fellow say: "If I was in New York I'd go to see that play, but I don't dare to home where everybody knows me?"

My friends, if a thing is a sin in Kingston it is a sin any other place on the face of the earth. Don't have a double standard of living.

Peacock's Beliefs.

In emphatic tones the evangelist hurled out that no matter what false prophets or teachers may attempt to do, he for one believed that the Bible was the inspired Word of God; that the world was created as it is set forth in the Bible; that Christ is the Son of God, and came into the world as outlined in the Bible; that there is a heaven and a hell, and that there is a sin in the world.

Two Sins Crept In.

Because of these false teachers and prophets two sins have crept into the world. The first is lack of reverence for God, and the second is the absence of the sense of sin.

We are living in an age where people are living to dishonor God. This is caused because we do not know about the holiness of God. You want to know anything about God you will have to get on a little higher plane than you usually walk upon.

How We Measure Ourselves.

So many of us measure ourselves with the people living around about us. If you do not get a little higher standard to much or get very far in the world.

Sin is doing what God forbids you to do, and sin is omitting to do what God wants us to do.

We must get beyond our college man. The only way to get right with God is to do what he wants us to do.

Accept God's Standard.

If your standard of life is the human standard you will never see wrong in anything, but if you get up a little higher and accept God's standard then you will be blessed. There is sin in the world and there is no man on the face of the earth who can reason sin out of the mind of God. God has said he will punish sin and he will do it. You say God is a God of love; yes, and he is a God of wrath.

Get Right With God.

In closing he urged his audience not to permit any person to turn them from the straight and narrow path that leads to God.

Sunday Meeting for Men.

Sunday afternoon the evangelist will address a meeting for men only at 2 o'clock in the tabernacle. Saturday evening a children's choir will sing and the evangelist will speak.

TELEPHONE GIRL HEROINE OF FIRE

Veritable Hail of Steel Riddled Homes in Vicinity of Canadian Car and Foundry Plant and Loss Will Reach $5,000,000—None of 4,000 Men Lost.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Kingsland, N. J., Jan. 12.—To the heroic courage of Tessa McNamara hundreds of employees of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company plant owe their lives today. The shells bursting over the building in which she was working and flames threatening her, Miss McNamara stuck to her telephone switchboard until shed after shed was called and warning given the foremen. When the 4,000 employees were all fleeing to safety, firemen dragged the half-fainting girl from the switchboard.

A mass of smoldering ruins from which still came the occasional roar of an exploding shell, more than 1,000 persons temporarily homeless, and a monetary loss estimated at $5,000,000—these were all that remained today to tell the story of the North Atlantic coast's second great explosion since its factories began turning out munitions for the warring countries.

Authorities began checking up today to verify the apparent miracle of no one being killed. Scores of persons were injured, but none, it is believed, seriously, and few by the explosions themselves. Most of the injured are suffering from exposure to the biting cold and icy water through which they fled panic-stricken to safety when the thousands of big shells began to let go.

It will be impossible to ascertain definitely the extent of the damage for some time. Hidden in the ruins of the Canadian Car and Foundry plant are still shells filled with high explosives which preclude any real attempt at investigation.

Windows for miles around were shattered. Unlike the Black Tom Island explosion last summer, the Canadian company's catastrophe did not seriously affect Manhattan Island. The damage was mostly confined to small New Jersey towns and Kingsland itself.

Great crowds, however, remained on top of Manhattan's skyscrapers all night watching the brilliant spectacle.

While it cannot definitely be ascertained, officials of the Canadian Car and Foundry Company declared today they do not believe the fire which started the wreckage of that factory was caused by incendiaryism or by a plot. They believe, it was stated, that a spark from faulty electric wiring dropped into an open vessel of gasoline or denatured alcohol, started the fire.

The hundreds of persons living in the vicinity of the plant ventured back cautiously today after spending the night as best they could. They found their dwellings shot riddled by the hail of steel. There were no windows.

ZERO WEATHER CHEERS ICE MEN

This morning was the coldest of the season and as usual the exact degree of coldness varied according to who was telling the story. While the jurors were waiting in the hallway of the court house before county court convened many tales of extreme weather were reported. However the coldest weather reported from the city was 4 below zero and from this ranged up to 6 above at 6.30 in the morning.

With 4 below being the lowest reported in the city, the country districts reported 6 below and in one instance a report of 8 below was received. There is little doubt but that last night was the coldest of the winter and could be termed good zero weather.

The past two days have made the ice men smile and with a few more days of cold weather the ice harvest will be in full swing. The past few warm days caused the ice to waste away to a considerable extent but a few days of cold weather will put the ice fields in excellent condition for the harvest and the ice will be of excellent quality with little snow ice.

In some places ice has already been harvested varying from 7 to 8 inches. The harvest on Merritt's pond was begun several days ago.

BLOOMINGTON MAN BURNED TO DEATH

Electric Spark Fired Powder Adhering to Clothing of William Relyea, Employed at Wayne, N. J.

William Relyea, a powder mixer, employed in the DuPont works at Wayne, N. J., was burned to death Thursday when a spark from an electric light switch ignited particles of powder adhering to his clothes.

Relyea had finished work in the plant and went outside to turn off the electric lights. When a spark jumped to his clothing his whole body seemed to burst into flames. Workmen rushed to his aid and smothered the fire, but the man died in a local hospital an hour after his arrival there. He lived at Bloomington, N. Y., but had been employed in Wayne, N. J., for a number of years. He is survived by a widow, several sisters and his father and mother.

WALL STREET SEES PEACE RECODE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Jan. 12.—The publication of the reply of the Allies was generally construed as materially diminishing the prospects of peace, and was an incentive for vigorous buying of the industrials at and for some time after the opening of the stock exchange today. The opening of Steel Common was recorded as 12,000 shares, from 112 1/2 to 113, compared with 111 1/2 at the close yesterday. There was a wide opening in Central Leather, from 32 1/2 to 33, a gain of 1/2 point. Republic Iron and Steel showed the same amount of gain to 73 1/2 and gains around a point were 73 1/2 and gains of 3/4, a gain of 1 1/2 points, and Utah rose 1/4 to 105 1/4. There was little change in the railway issues, although these stocks showed a fairly strong tone, with large trading in Erie around 32. Reading after an opening gain of a point, at 89 1/2, dropped to 88 1/2. Texas Company, which opened 1/2 point higher at 23 1/2, fell to 23 1/4. At the end of the first fifteen minutes there was a heavy supply of stocks and reactions ranging from one to two points were noted in many issues.

This time the tables will turn and the mothers are to be the scholars, learning from their daughters pointers on this new cooking game so much talked of. If sister has been reluctant to show her new culinary knowledge on the home range she is going to unveil her proficiency to mother Tuesday. This novel exhibition will probably meet with a hearty response by the parents.

WATER BOARD HAD BRIEF MEETING

Superintendent Harrison Tells of Trouble at Filter House When Cables Broke—Financial Statement of Board.

Superintendent Harrison reported to the water board on Thursday afternoon at the monthly meeting the reason why the bill of the Builders' from Poultry of Providence, R. I., amounting to $21.70 was being held up. It seems that two cables were ordered from the concern. These were known as phosphor-bronze cables for register weights. The weights weigh nearly two hundred pounds each. When the cables were received one cable was adjusted to the weight and the men proceeded to wind it on the drum when one of the buttons on the end of the cable became detached from the wire allowing the weight to drop breaking one of the valve connections. The cable was discarded and the other was adjusted. During the night it fell breaking the manometer installed between the two registers and stripping all the connections from one register and damaging the second register, also all of the connections on the manometer and breaking the standard of the manometer.

The two cables have been sent back to the concern with the request that they be made safe and when returned that a man be sent along to install the connections. It is estimated that the damage done by the cables letting loose was greater than the amount of the bill, and the breaking of the cables was due to Routine matters were taken up and disposed of before adjourning. President Hauck presided with Commissioners Roach and Harrison present.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Each home has an individuality that is strongly its own, and expresses to the world the ideals and standards of life of those within.

SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPERS.

This is the time when the chafing dish may be enjoyed, with leisure to perform all sorts of experiments.

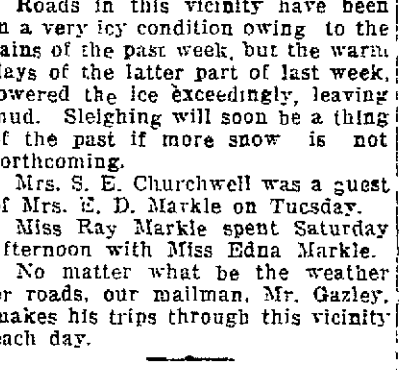

Salad Sandwich.—A salad, a sandwich, hot or otherwise, a hot drink, or an iced one, depending upon the temperature, with fruit, fresh or preserved, and a small cake and one need not turn away a guest because of lack of provender.

Ox Tongue With Tomato Sauce.—Cut a boiled tongue in slices, then in disks with a biscuit cutter. Have ready mashed potatoes, well-seasoned with butter and cream and covered with the white of an egg and piled on a platter in a long mound. Make a tomato sauce or use a can of tomato soup, lay in the tongue, and when thoroughly hot arrange around the mound, overlapping and standing on edge, pour the sauce around.

Chestnuts in Coffee Sauce.—Have one quart of the large chestnuts boiled, shelled and blanched; this may be done the day before. Cook them in salted water until they are nearly tender. Just before using, put them with a very little water and a tablespoonful of sugar into a pan and cook them until they are soft, but whole. Put into a blazer of the chafing dish one cupful of clear hot coffee, two tablespoonfuls each of sugar and caramel and when boiling a tablespoonful of cornstarch mixed with cold water or milk-cook this five minutes; pour part of the sauce on two beaten egg yolks, return this to the blaze and cook but a moment to set the eggs. Let cool for a moment, then add half a cupful of cream and pour the sauce over the chestnuts. Serve with sponge cake.

Apple Souffle With Vanilla Cream.—Cook together six sliced apples, with a fourth of a cupful of water and three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, add the grated peel of two lemons, a speck of salt and a bit of bay leaf. When soft add a half ounce of softened gelatin and press through a sieve. Add three tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one tablespoonful of butter, color a pale green, and when cold add a half cupful of whipped cream and the whites of two eggs, well blended. Pipe on a mound of sponge cake and serve with vanilla ice cream.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Dainty Frill Shirtwaist.

1832—This style is ideal for lawn, batiste, dimity, voile, crepe and crepe de chine. The fronts are turned back to form ripple revers, that meet a rolled collar. The sleeve in wrist length has a band cuff to which a frill may be added. In short length, a turnback cuff with pointed edges forms a suitable finish.

The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 3 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

BEAD BAGS.

Do You Know How to Bead Your Own on Canvas?

You know, there is a "trick in the trade" of beaded bags—in fact, beaded everything—for fashion says "beads," and in chorus the world echoes. There is talk in certain manufacturing circles of doing away with the tedious process of a stitch for every bead by the use of gelatin. But the idea has not as yet progressed beyond mere talk, so a "stitch to a bead" remains still the only way of doing beadwork. It would try the patience of a saint, though, to work out a design on velvet or any other material alone. This very exasperation, perhaps, accounts for the happy invention of the "trick"—a bit of canvas. Whether you select coarse or fine canvas depends on the size of the head that you use. Stretch the canvas taut on the right side of the material and baste it firmly on all sides. The design is then worked out on the canvas, using a stitch for every bead; the basting is removed, and the canvas, withdrawn, reveals the beaded surface of your material. The easiest design for the amateur to attempt is the diamond, depending on color combination rather than artistic workmanship for its effect. All steel beads on black, old blue or any of the wine shades are decidedly fetching. Consider black on white and white on black, of course. For the diamond pattern, beginning with one bead, increase the number at each new line until the design meets the required width, then decrease until it is completed.

HUSK DOORMATS.

How to Braid Them For Your Porches Next Spring

At this season corn husk doormats should be made for the porch. They are easily and quickly made and quite serviceable. Select husks next to the ear because they are white and soft. If they should be a little dry sprinkle them with water.

Draw the husks into a common three strand braid, feeding your braid from the end and each time the left hand comes over put in a new husk. Let each husk as added extend about one inch above the braid, and let it be the butt end of the husk that extends above. The length of the braid depends upon how large you want your mat.

Take your darning needle and common core cord and sew the braid into a round or oblong rug by coiling the braid around, sewing each coil as made to the last coil made.

The rug is a smooth braid on the lower side and a solid mass of husks, one inch deep, on top.

THE NEEDLEWORKERS.

blue linen, fringed in the same color, with black and white and a lighter shade of blue for the embroidery. four conventional roses. Done in white linen and does, this design is suitable for your tea tray.

Your New Veil.

The veil has now assumed an almost decorative place. To be sure, it is occasionally worn, in the guise of a small meshed net, to keep the hair neat in the wind or, in the guise of a thick chiffon, to keep one comfortable motor-ing in the cold weather, but for the most part the veil is purely ornamental. In such a position it is altogether charming, and on many of the new hats it appears to very good advantage in this way.

Satisfactory to Creditors. A newspaper writer talks about "paying debts with money." The creditor will never object to that method.—Buffalo Express.

No terms with an unbeaten Germany. Such is the succinct summary of the Allies' reply to President Wilson's note that one head-line artificer makes. It fairly describes prevailing opinion on the note, but it must be remembered that the demands therein set forth are the maximum demands of the Entente Allies. The door to further negotiations is by no means closed even though the immediate effect of this announcement of terms will be to arouse the Central Empires to a new determination to carry on the war more vigorously, for a time at least. While the reply sharply disclaims any similarity in the aims of the Entente and the Teutonic Central Powers, the Allies have the advantage in having made their terms explicit and it seems most probable that Germany, in her almost certain retort, must withdraw from the vague generalities hitherto substituted for specific peace proposals and get down to cases. The stage of secrecy has passed. No longer can the international diplomats make moves affecting the destinies of their respective countries without open statements for the information of the people. A master stroke in the reply under consideration is that the Allies have never desired "to encompass the destruction of the German peoples and their political disappearance." This one provision with the expressed desire to insure a peace upon "the basis of liberty and justice" should do much toward establishing one common meeting ground for the belligerents. It is now up to Germany to seek to justify itself in the court of world opinion instead of following up her course in demanding peace with herself and her allies in the role of victors.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Papers which have or are about to become part of the city archives contain two illuminating clauses. Both papers emanate from The Taxpayers Association of the City of Kingston. One has been received by the common council and is in reference to the city budget. The council postponed the adoption of the budget until after it heard representatives of the association. The other communication will be filed with the city clerk, mayor and president of the board of police commissioners in reference to the appointment of a sergeant of police from among the present policemen and asks that no additional policeman be appointed. With regard to the city budget proposed by the Association, the Taxpayers Association's communication to the common council contains this sentence with reference to the Charities Department: "It is not we believe, at all improper, to call attention to the fact, that for years past it has been a fact much commented upon, of the large number of people receiving aid from the city, some of whom were undeserving, and who resorted to various ingenious methods to get help or more than their pro rata share." The theory on which public charity, not to mention private benevolence, is distributed everywhere takes into consideration the needs of the people benefited, either as individuals or collectively as families. It would be interesting to know what is the "pro rata share" and how it can be determined. Why not give every citizen a "pro rata share" of the fund of the Charities Department? Then everyone will be happy while his "pro rata share" lasts.

The resolution in regard to a police sergeant states that "from the number of arrests made by such department and the character of the offenses for which arrests are made, this Association believes there are comparatively few serious crimes committed in this city during the course of a year, and therefore that there are sufficient policemen without adding others to the department." There should be more crimes to justify the continuance of the police department. What are policemen for except to make arrests for serious crimes? Their peace duties, such as protecting the public from would-be criminals, keeping citizens reminded of derelictions of obedience to city ordinances, enforcing all laws, will be performed by each citizen voluntarily, or may be assumed by the Taxpayers Association. Abolish the police department and the Department of Charities and give every citizen his pro rata share. We are on the verge of the millennium.

LITTLE LAUGHS.

"Do you think women ought to take an active part in politics?" "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "But I'm afraid that a girl who sacrifices her life to politics is going to have something like the customary experience of a girl who marries a man to reform him."—Washington Star.

An Easy Job.

Little seven-year-old James came home from school the first day with a determined look on his face. "Mother," he cried, "I'm going to quit school and be a school teacher." "Why, James," said his mother, laughing, "how can you? You don't know enough yet." "Don't know enough?" exclaimed the would-be school teacher. "You don't have to know anything! All you've got to do is ask questions!"—The Christian Herald.

Injured Pride.

After a recent Zeppelin raid, when the worst was over, a resident went out into town to see what damage had been done. In the darkness he heard a group of women talking loudly, and judging them a clue not to be neglected he followed them along an entry into the back yard of a house. The debate never ceased, but he was unable to get the hang of it until one of the women—the most eloquent—appealed directly to him. "Ere," she said, "do you call it fair? 'T' bomb drop in our yard an' a bobby's come and took it away. Never even give me a receipt for it, it's our bomb."—Manchester Guardian.

Shocking Replies.

And while we are talking of Texas, we should like to recall the experience of our friend, the Texas editor, who not without some difficulty, ran an "Answers to Correspondents" column. Everything went fairly well until the never-to-be-forgotten day when he sadly mixed up two letters and printed the wrong answers under each.

"How shall I cure my babies of teething?" asked one reader.

"How shall I get rid of grasshoppers in my back garden?" another queried.

To the first he made reply:

"Wrap the little pests in straw and set fire to them. After jumping about for a while they will speedily be settled."

The second querist was struck dumb to read the following appendage to his letter.

"Rub their gums gently with a bone."

Did the editor lose two subscribers? Yes, verily.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Pat Didn't Refuse It.

Pat, a Scotty, and a Cockney were in company recently. They were very thirsty and hard up, having only the price of a single beer between them. Deciding to invest in this they entered a bar and had the drink supplied.

"O tell ye what," said Pat, as he surveyed the flowing measure. "There's only enough here for wan, so we'd better put it up for a grammar competition an' the best wan'll get the lot."

This was agreed to.

"Well, now," said Pat, to the Scotty, "which would you say, 'O' can't take this drink,' or 'O' won't take this drink?'"

"I canna take this drink," replied Scotty.

"An' you?" asked Pat of the Cockney.

"I won't take this drink," answered the latter.

"Well," said Pat, "O' say, 'O' will take this drink.'"

And he did.—New York Mail.

HUNTERS HAVEN'T ALL THEIR BUTTONS

New Identification Tag Found Fragile and Conservation Commission Provides Substitutes—Can't Tell a Nimrod Without an Emblem.

Hunters and trappers who are required to take out a license have found that the buttons which are issued with the licenses were made of such brittle material that they broke easily and many complaints of broken buttons have been made by the hunters throughout the county, especially in view of the fact that they were liable to arrest if found hunting without their button.

Pot-hunters have taken advantage of the button-breaking epidemic to hunt without licenses, relying on the button-breaking story to help get them out of difficulty, if caught by game protectors, and to escape observation because of the general breakage of the buttons issued to hunters who had taken out licenses. The buttons are large enough to satisfy the dreams of a cartoonist and can be seen with the naked eye on a man's coat at a distance of a quarter of a mile.

Continued complaints have resulted in a modification of former orders that no new buttons would be issued but that in the event of loss of the hunter's button the hunter must obtain a new license and button. Notice received today by county clerks, city clerks and town clerks throughout the state, who issue hunting and trapping licenses, is to the effect that State Conservation Commissioner George D. Pratt has decided in view of the fact that a few buttons were found to be defective that where a hunter's button has been lost and that fact is brought to the attention of the official charged with issuing the same, such official is requested to notify the State Conservation Commission, together with the name, address and serial number of the licensee's license and a duplicate button will be issued by the commission.

Hunters and trappers whose hunting buttons have been lost or broken must therefore apply to the official who issued their license and button, and they in turn will notify the Conservation Commission, so that the hunter will be supplied with a new button, just as big and conspicuous as the old one.

The result of the ruling of the Conservation Commission will be the trapping and prosecution of pot-hunters, as game protectors and wardens will make arrests of hunters and trapper who do not display their buttons. The buttons are large enough to be seen by the game wardens but it is not thought that they will frighten game.

COMPANY M READY FOR INSPECTION

Considerable interest is being manifested in the annual muster and inspection of Company M at the armory at 8 o'clock next Monday night. The inspection will be public as heretofore and the usual large attendance is expected as Kingston people have always exhibited a keen interest in the local unit of the Tenth regiment. The inspecting officers are Captain Leisnering and Captain Gray, representing the regular war department, and Col. William Chapin, representing the National Guard of New York. Lieut. Colonel Saulpaugh, of the Tenth regiment, will also take part in the inspection.

Captain Frank L. Meagher is hopeful that Company M and its 85 members will achieve a satisfactory rating at the hands of the inspecting officers. The Kingston guardsmen are in fine condition.

At Newburgh, Company E, First Infantry, was inspected Wednesday night and Thursday night Company E was inspected. Both organizations were found efficient, the work of the companies being criticized in the presence of the entire company, which is a departure from the system usually followed by regular army officers who have reported their findings at a later date. In Poughkeepsie tonight Company K, of the Tenth regiment will be inspected.

Next Monday during the day, the company property, the individual weapons and equipment of the men, and books and records will be carefully gone over by the officers. The property inspection is in charge of Capt. Gray, who has a count made of every bit of government property, down to the last fork and spoon.

At the annual inspection, on January 1, First Infantry, in Middletown Tuesday night, there were 46 absentees.

Capt. Leisnering until recently was on duty as an instructor with the Tenth Infantry National Guard. Captain Gray's last assignment was with the Massachusetts Guard before coming to New York state.

A Pilgrimage of Prayer.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's Episcopal Church, will enter on Sunday, upon a week of intercession and prayer. This is in accordance with the resolution adopted at the last triennial gathering of the Episcopal Church. The method outlined at that convention was as follows: Beginning with the first Sunday in Advent, December 3, each church is assigned to the Woman's Auxiliary, in one or more specified parishes, with the request that on the Sunday assigned all members of the auxiliary, who can do so, join in corporate communion, and that during the days following, one or more meetings be held, devoted to intercessory prayer. Each member of the entire auxiliary is further urged to repeat the special intercessions daily throughout the week.

On the closing Sunday of the year, the Sunday next before Advent, November 25, 1917, all members of the Woman's Auxiliary throughout the Episcopal Church, are requested to observe, yet one in heart and will, are asked to make their communion together and offer unitedly their intercessions in their great Pilgrimage of prayer.

In accordance with this plan, there will be a corporate communion for the Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's, Kingston, at 7:30 a. m. on Sunday, January 14. On Wednesday of next week at 7 p. m. there will be a special meeting in the parish house, and on Friday at 4 p. m. there will be evening prayer in St. John's Church.

Seeking a Theme

It Was Found, But Never Used

By ETHEL HOLMES

Miss Julia Henderson was very much courted. She was generally attractive, comely and prominent socially. But that which raised her above her fellow spinsters was that she was a novelist who had won her way to literary recognition.

Miss Henderson had recently finished a story. It had been published and had made its mark. Already the publisher had begun to clamor for more from her typewriter. She was casting about for a theme. She had this far relied rather upon the naturalness, the humanity of her stories than upon plot. Now she had come to realize that to the bulk of the reading public plot was very acceptable. But for this she had little talent. She wished she might come upon some real haystack out of the ordinary that she could develop into a plot.

Miss Henderson asked friends of hers to suggest some real haystack. It was not long before she had a list of suggestions. Some of them tried to give her a complete list of circumstances that might serve the purpose. But they were all too tame. She promised them she should attempt to please the public by this list of fiction to go into it for all it was worth and develop only what was suitable to the plot.

One day she was out for a walk when she wished for originals for her characters. She would stroll about, not thinking of any person she had met. When she came upon one who struck her as being unique she would make a mental note of the person and when she got home would jot down a few salient points by way of description. On this walk she received a surprise.

A man, evidently a gentleman, who was passing her passed, looking at her with wide open eyes.

"Hello," he exclaimed.

There were in the man's face pain, reproach, a burning love. Evidently he fancied that she was some one other than herself. She returned his gaze, but said nothing.

"Oh, hello," he continued, "where have you been all this while? Why did you conceal yourself from me? It was all a mistake. When we were separated coming out of the opera, having lost you I went to the carriage. The door stood open, and I saw a woman inside. Supposing she was you, I got in, closed the door, and we were driven away. She supposed I was her husband. He was coming for the carriage when he saw me get into it and drive away. He called on other conveyance and followed, overtook us, and then came the tragedy, an accident of which I am sure."

In the morning papers. This is the truth, and all the truth, I swear to you."

Miss Henderson remained speechless, but not thought. She thought very hard and very rapidly, and this was the substance of her thinking.

"There is not only a theme, but I am one of the characters, the heroine. The woman in the carriage must be the wicked foil. The man who made the mistake in thinking his wife was running away with another should be the hero, but I haven't got so far as that yet. One thing is certain. I'll get points by permitting this man to remain in error so long as possible."

"Drawing away," she said, "I don't know you."

"Listen to me. It was not my fault that this woman had been an old flame of mine. Fate plays strange pranks, but you should not, you shall not hold me accountable for this one."

Miss Henderson was delighted. "The plot thickens," she thought.

"If you wish my forgiveness for—"

She paused. She preferred not to make the only foolish she considered safe—viz. pretending that she was some one else than herself. But she was disinclined enough to put a slight tremor into her voice. He continued:

"I not only wish your forgiveness, I will tell you a story that will convince you of my innocence of wrong. This man who had married the woman I once thought I loved was burning with jealous rage. He knew of his wife's former indisposition for me, and, now thinking that she was untrue to him that I had taken my former place with her, as soon as he had caught me with a knife and plunged it into me—"

The man, overcome by the memory of a horrid sight, stopped short and covered his eyes with his hands. Miss Henderson, who was wrapped in the dramatic situation, forgot herself and asked:

"You or the woman?"

Bringing his hands, he looked at her wonderingly.

"Do you not know he killed her?"

"Her? Certainly. What was I thinking of?"

"That settles the matter of the female villain," said Miss Henderson to herself. "She dies too early in the story. I must find another. But I fear there's more in this plot than I bargained for. I wonder who I am—I mean the woman he has mistaken for me?" Then to the man she said aloud:

author for her story. She would show in her heroine that beautiful faith of a woman in the man she loves. I will think it over," she said. "Now leave me. If I decide that it is best to permit you to plead your cause, at the same time furnishing evidence of what you claim, I will receive you at my home."

The man clasped his hands and looked up to the heavens, and his lips moved in mute thanks. Then, taking a card from his pocketbook, he scribbled his address on it.

"You see that I have changed my quarters. I shall expect to hear from you—when?"

"If at all within a few days."

She moved on without further reply to the wistful look he gave her. As soon as she conceived herself to be out of sight she looked at the name and address on the card he had given her. It was "Edwin V. Atterbury, University Club."

She was somewhat appalled now that the interview was over at having entered upon a complication with a clubman that might place her in a very embarrassing situation. Fortunately she had not given her name and need not communicate with him further unless so disposed. She resolved that she would let him alone. But this prudent resolution was combated by a sympathy for a poor fellow who was the victim of circumstances.

Would it not be better to send for him, console him of his error and offer sympathy? Possibly she might assist him in reconciliation with the woman she herself was supposed to be.

There was one objection to going further with the matter in any way—that was the murder that had been committed. She had been so interested in getting material for her novel, or rather, forming the plot that she had not thought to ask whether the woman had succumbed under the blow she had received or whether her husband had suffered for his crime. Indeed, he had not been in a sufficiently clear view of the tragedy.

After much debate with herself and having considered the case pro and con she reluctantly decided that it would not be wise to follow the matter further.

A short time after her meeting with Mr. Atterbury she was invited to dine with her friend, Mrs. Winston. The note of invitation contained the following: "I wish you to meet a friend of mine who has for some time been admiring you from a distance. I confess that I don't like the idea of introducing him to you, for he is a supernumerary. I don't mean that there is anything bad about him, but he has the assurance of a confident man and would not hesitate in any means to secure the favor of a woman he loves."

There was nothing repellent about this to Miss Henderson. Indeed, she was quite pleased at the prospect of meeting this bold unknown man who had been admiring her without making himself known. She went to the dinner in a tremor of expectation.

When she arrived the hostess was chatting with a gentleman in the conventional evening dress. Both arose, and Miss Henderson stood stock still in astonishment. Surely the gentleman was the man who was waiting for her forgiveness.

"Good evening, Miss Henderson," said Mr. Atterbury. "I wish you to know my friend, Mr. Atterbury."

Mr. Atterbury bowed low, but gave no sign that he had ever met Miss Henderson before. Miss Henderson was too confused to say anything. Indeed, since the man did not recognize her as the sweetheart from whom a cruel fate had separated him, what was there to say? A number of suppositions flashed themselves through her brain. Possibly, dressed differently and being in a different place, she did not so nearly resemble his lost love as before. Then too, he might not care to mention what was uppermost in his mind before a third person. But how was it that this man so madly in love with her double, could have been so near her at the same time? Miss Henderson was mystified.

The dinner passed off more pleasantly than might have been expected. Mr. Atterbury must certainly have recovered from his misfortune, for he was in excellent spirits and delightfully entertaining. At parting he asked permission to call upon Miss Henderson and it was granted.

A couple of months passed, during which Mr. Atterbury devoted himself exclusively to Miss Henderson. She had not mentioned his having mistaken her for some one else. A proposal came in time.

"How about Belle?" she asked. "Has your love for her cooled so soon?"

"Belle?" he said, as if trying to remember. "Who is Belle?"

"And how about your getting into the wrong carriage, the late husband, and all that?"

"Wasn't there a murder too?" he asked, with a twinkle in his eye.

"Yes, there was. Come, explain."

"Well, here it is. I had seen you and admired you. Mrs. Winston told me that you were hunting for a plot for a novel, and I thought I would help you to one. I did very wrong. I must throw myself on your mercy."

Miss Henderson's mercy was not extended to him for a year. Then she gave it in full measure. She married him.

U. S. COULD STOP WAR WITHIN WEEK

Judge Wesley O. Howard Delivers a Few Opinions on Food Speculators and Munitions-Makers Urges Embargo on Food Exports.

The European war would cease within one week if the American president and congress, demanding peace, told the belligerents that the United States would no longer feed them and supply them with war munitions. Supreme Court Justice Wesley O. Howard, of Troy, said at a banquet of the Republican Club Wednesday night at Rensselaer.

"Food conditions are becoming acute and alarming," he asserted, "and the instinct of self-preservation should prompt the United States to act. The munitions makers and the food speculators want the war to continue." Justice Howard added: "They have become fabulously rich. Their greed is insatiable. They and their allies, the stock gamblers, importune the president, they threaten congress, they pull wires at the departments. They resist the great cry of humanity for peace. The limit of endurance of the American people is almost reached."

"We must stop sending food to Europe. No statesman should hesitate to take this stand. An embargo on the exportation of food supply should be brought to a sudden halt. Then a bold warning should be sent to the nations of Europe commanding them to cease."

"The nation is rousing itself to demand this. The president and congress have between two contending forces—the munitions makers, stock gamblers and food speculators on one side, the housewives on the other. Let these statesmen who fear the magnates more than they love the people take heed."

WORK DONE BY FARM BUREAU

Review of Work Done in 1916 Shows Wide Field of Useful Activities by the Organization.

(From The Spokesman.)

This is a question which is often asked by the person on the outside, the one who is not a member of the Farm Bureau, who doesn't receive or read the SPOKESMAN, attend any meetings, or read the newspapers. In order to answer him, we print herewith a skeleton report. Read it, remember it, cut it out and put it in your pocket note book, and when called upon to defend your Farm Bureau, so overwhelm the knocker or even the true, honest seeker for information that he becomes a convert to Bureau work.

This is a report of the accomplishments of the Bureau. It is not given as a report of the accomplishments of the Manager. For without the cooperation and assistance of our 513 members, of the Granges, the Fruit Exchange, the Ulster County Agricultural Society, Chamber of Commerce, Boards of Trade which have co-operated with our Bureau, the Manager could have done but little. DRAW LIME NOW.
At this time of the year when many horses are standing idle in the stables, is a good time to get in your supply of lime. Roads are good at present and are likely to continue for a month or more. In the spring of the year the roads break up and it is almost impossible to draw a fair sized load of lime home. Hydrated lime and ground lime only can be spread to good advantage when snow is on the ground, providing there is no crust at the time the material is spread. This permits drawing direct from the kiln of lime to the field. If lime is to be piled in the field it is a good plan to make a foundation six or eight inches high of stones or a board platform on which to pile the lime, otherwise it becomes salty or lumpy.

Height of Gladness.
When the stomach is full the heart is glad; when the heart is full the soul is glad, and when the soul is full the whole man is glad.

MAYOR SMITH.

MAYOR TAKES CHARGE OF HUNT FOR MODEL'S SLAYER

Philadelphia, Jan. 11.—Newspapers have been full of the police investigation of the death of Mary Robert, known as Grace Roberts, the beautiful model, as a result of the action of Mayor Smith in practically taking personal charge of the case. Mayor Smith has not been satisfied with the results obtained by the police and is by no means content to let the case of Bernard Weiss, known in an Atlantic City hotel, drop the case against him and let the police have sufficient excuse to drop it.

We're All Actors.
Mme. Alexandra Vanda, the Polish tragedienne, once proposed the following: "It is a strange thing to find a man to mend a rip in his coat. 'No; he is not a tailor.' 'Ask another to stop the faucet from leaking.' 'No; he's not a plumber.' 'Or another to do a bit of cabinet work.' 'No; he is not a carpenter.' But ask any one of the three or all of them to enact a little part in a play and each will smile in famous confidence and insist on acquiescence. 'But watch him act!'"

Electricity in the White House.
The White House is said to have the most intricate and complete electrical system installed in any building in this country. There are in the mansion nearly 170 miles of wires providing for 1,000 incandescent lights, a bell system, a private telephone system for the president and his family, electric burglar alarms, fire alarms and a power system which supplies current to ventilating fans and an automatic elevator.

Postage stamps are sold in nearly all clearings of 100 or more. Farming and its branches are the staple industries of Serbia.

Catching Fish by Suction.
The fish of the deep are getting scarce but they can't stand a recent apparatus built to ensnare them. It is nothing more than an application of the vacuum cleaner principle. The fish enter a funnel-shaped net under the boat and are drawn up to a collection point.

Their Lonesome Look.
Having a large family, the dining room table was a long one. A short time ago the parents were alone for a few weeks so all the leaves were taken from the table. A little boy from next door came in one day at dinner time and seeing the small table, said: "My, but you look lonesome on so close together!"

Flying Fishes.
Some fish can spring from the water and sustain themselves in long flights of various distances in the air. These flights are made possible through the development of the pectoral or breast fins, and though the flying fish never flap their fins in their sailing flights, they are able to cover a distance of no less than 500 feet.

DR. GARLAND WILL SPEAK AT SCHOOL

Chamber of Commerce Arranges For Visit of Director of Public Welfare from Dayton, Ohio—Modern Theories on Political Economics.

"Something Big for Every Week" is the slogan of the new Chamber of Commerce. This is already established as a custom by the events of several weeks past, beginning with the Get-together dinner early in December. Campaigning, elections and the annual meeting have brought the members together with something to do right through the holidays and up to the present week.

Next week's event will be not only for members of the Chamber of Commerce but for the public at large. Dr. D. F. Garland of Dayton, Ohio, has been engaged to visit Kingston. An effort will be made to secure the high school auditorium. The date is not yet fixed, but will probably be Thursday evening, the 18th.

Everywhere he goes Dr. Garland draws such crowds that an auditorium as large as that of the high school will be needed to hold his audience in Kingston. He is one of the pioneers in creating a new public office, that of Director of Public Welfare, and his accomplishments are so remarkable, and his ability to speak of them is so pleasing, that everywhere he goes newspaper comment is enthusiastic and his hearers are quoted in expressions of the greatest pleasure and lasting good.

The new Welfare Department of city government groups together some established activities and adds some that are new. It takes over, for example, the health bureau, including milk inspection. It operates the department of charities, the dispensaries and other forms of relief to inhabitants who are needy or ignorant in some of the simpler matters of living. Child welfare is one of its principal concerns, directly feeding poor or sickly children and especially teaching mothers proper care of themselves and their little ones. Naturally play grounds and other forms of recreation have the attention of this very human branch of city government.

To make itself most effective, this busy arm does not stay inside of an office at the city hall helping only those who call upon it. It reaches out into the streets and homes, sending visiting nurses to look after the sick. One of the latest ideas is to send a visiting housekeeper to teach housekeeping to women who have grown up without knowing the rudiments of a woman's business, home making. In all of these activities Dr. Garland has proved himself a conspicuously successful leader.

What Dr. Garland has to say in his public lectures is far more than merely an interesting account of what his department does. What he has to say that will be of especial value to Kingston, the reason why the Chamber of Commerce wants Kingston people to hear him, is the tracing of the very close connection between the individual and commercial prosperity of a city with the present welfare of the human beings who live in the city and are employed in its commercial and industrial establishments.

Until very recently that connection has not been seen clearly, either by proprietors of business houses, by their employees, by public officials nor by political economists. The thought of the employer was that his only concern for his employees was the work they performed during business hours and that outside of those hours and outside of his place of business their affairs were no concern of his. The employee has had precisely the same idea from his point of view. Both of them have based that thought of utter indifference to the personal welfare of the other; or even on a mistaken idea of self respect. The duties of the public official, as conceived both by himself and the public, have had to do only with the administration of the business affairs of the city and enforcement of the laws and ordinances. The political economist has done all his thinking and writing about an abstraction which he calls wealth, quite overlooking the fact that he was dealing all the time with flesh and blood human beings.

People are now beginning in some progressive communities to get the idea that a city government after all is just the clubbing together of a large number of neighbors to do those things which concern them all, as distinguished from purely private or family affairs; and that those matters of common concern go beyond such needs as street pavements, fire departments, law breaking and rudimentary education.

This clearer, broader view is what Dr. Garland makes clear and interesting to the thousands of people who hear him at his infrequent lectures. Kingston has the opportunity of hearing him only because he happens next week to be in the east at the urgent invitation of the Chamber of Commerce at Meriden and Stamford, Conn., Kingston and Lockport.

The officers of the Chamber of Commerce desire to have it clearly understood that the public at large is cordially and urgently invited to the Garland lecture. Admission is free.

ARMY DESERTERS CAUGHT IN MEXICO

Field Headquarters, Punitive Expedition, Mexico, (By Army Telegraph to Columbus, N. M., Jan. 12).—Deserters from the army are not safe from capture and punishment even in the wild mountain country that divides Chihuahua and Sonora states.

At dusk last night five men in soldier's uniform rode into camp guarded by 12 other soldiers. The five prisoners were tied to their horses, which were stumbling from weariness. Their guards rode upon their mounts, but they too were tired out.

The prisoners were deserters who left camp five nights ago taking their rifles and equipment with them. The morning after desertion a detachment was sent in pursuit. Heading this detachment were four Apache Indian trailers. They picked up the trail of the deserters and held them like hounds.

Tuesday evening the missing men were captured without a fight. They were 95 miles southeast of this camp, far back in the mountains. They never imagined that they could be followed and overtaken in the wilderness country.

General Pershing has complete his inspection of the personnel and material of the several thousand troops stationed here. Infantry and cavalry regiments were inspected Wednesday. Engineer Companies, signal Corps, artillery and hospital sections were examined yesterday. The inspection will continue until the middle of next week, in the form of maneuvers and war problems. The simultaneous use of the entire command in camp here, the largest maneuver of its kind ever undertaken by an American military force in time of peace.

Two days' inspection has proven that Pershing's command is in as splendid condition as any body of American troops ever in the field. Officers of long experience, men who have been observers in foreign wars, said today that they have never seen better soldiers.

"If we should have war suddenly," said a high officer, "the troops of this expeditionary command would lead the American army, because they are the flower of our forces."

IPPOLITO NEVER TOLD A LIE

Vincenzo Ippolito, like George Washington, never told a lie and while on the witness stand during the morning when his case against James P. Whitley of Highland was being tried he impressed upon the court and jury that he was "a man with one face and not afraid to look everyone in the face." When questioned as to conversation and facts he informed the court that he always told the truth and "no lie, anytime." The testimony was in extremely broken English and the majority of witnesses were of Italian birth.

The action is brought by Ippolito to recover for a commission which he claims Whitley promised to pay him upon the sale of a number of lots located along the New Paltz turnpike some two miles from Highland. Ippolito, who conducts a shoe shop and a robbler store in Highland, was offered a commission of $5 for each lot sold by him but this fact Mr. Whitley denies and claims he never promised to pay a commission. Some 13½ lots were sold by Ippolito and he is suing to recover $67.50 the amount of his commission.

Eljah T. Russell appeared for the plaintiff and A. W. Lent for the defendant.

James Simpson, a Civil War veteran, who spends a great deal of his time in the shoe shop of the plaintiff refused to state how much of his time he spent in the shop and told Mr. Lent that he was a free man and could spend his time where he pleased.

"Now did not you have some trouble with Mr. Whitley?" said Mr. Lent.

"Never," answered Mr. Simpson. "As a matter of fact were you not discharged by the defendant?" continued Mr. Lent.

"I was never discharged," said Simpson.

"Oh, I suppose you resigned." "No sir, I told him to pay me what he owed me and I was through. We never had any trouble. He paid me by money and I quit," said Mr. Simpson in explanation.

The question involved in the case is did Mr. Whitley promise to pay a commission of $5, and if so how many lots were sold by the plaintiff. According to Mr. Simpson's testimony he was present when Mr. Whitley made the offer to pay a commission. At the time Mr. Whitley according to the testimony of Ippolito told him to sell as many lots as he could to his "Guinea friends" and he would pay him a commission of $5.00.

The case will be continued this afternoon.

All witnesses were excused by Judge Jenkins for the term and the jurors of the regular panel were excused until 2 o'clock Monday, January 22, when court will again convene.

Oklahoma Is Conservative.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 12.—The Oklahoma legislature today took a vote on the world today that it opposes such new fangled things as birth control and cigarette smoking for women. By unanimous vote a resolution was adopted congratulating Mr. and Mrs. Kress of Hills, on the birth of quadruplets. The house of representatives puts its O. K. on a bill not only prohibiting the selling of cigarettes and "makings" but making the smoking of a cigarette an offense.

Street Car Runs Wild.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Jan. 12.—Leaping through the doors of a street car, which ran wild for 25 blocks in the heart of Brooklyn's business street today, more than a score of persons were injured. There were seriously hurt. There were no cars ahead of it and the pedestrians and vehicles cleared from its path. The car was finally stopped when the conductor pulled the trolley from the dead wire.

To Prevent Draft.

To keep windows open and yet feel no draft while sleeping take an old sheet or a piece of cloth as long as the bed and about a yard and a half wide. Fasten a loop of tape or elastic to the corners of one lengthwise edge, loop over the posts at the head and foot of bed on side next to the window and you have a screen that will keep off all draft, but still give plenty of fresh air. St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Ma Enters the Game.

"What do you want, ma?"
"You must go to the grocery store at once and get a pound of butter."
"But, ma, we're playin' war, an' I'm leadin' our army against the enemy."
"Never mind. Play the commissary department has been shot to pieces and go after that butter."—Blushing Age-Herald.

GRAFT RULES CHINA.

To Refuse to Accept It Would Create a Big Sensation.

Why can't China build her own railroads, decide her own affairs? She has engineers who are no slouches; she has limitless material and the cheapest of labor.

There are two reasons, sloth, and graft, the outgrowth of sloth.

Try to take one of the little steamers that ply from point to point along the coast of China. "Will the boat leave today at the scheduled time?" you ask the agents at the pier. Well, no, probably not till tomorrow, the courteous Chinese tell you. Tomorrow again there is some delay, and you may hang about for a week before you get off in that steamer. How could such methods build a trunk line from Peking to Canton, even if the government could float all the bonds in the world?

Graft, which permeates all China, from the highest official to the poorest coolie, would make it very difficult for a corporation to live. So many would take bites from the melon!

A missionary over here on a visit tells a story of a Chinese boy, educated in a mission school, who nearly upset a whole province by refusing graft. Sent on some expedition for the local government, he was given what in our money would be $300 for expenses. When he returned he handed in $50.

"What is this for?" they asked.

"I spent only $250," he explained.

There was a great to do, and the governor of the province sent to see this lad, who had done what no man had ever been known to do before. But he was solemnly assured that he must not return that $50 because it would mortify others who kept all they could get—Eleanor Booth Simmons in World Outlook.

You'll Know Him.

Sometimes Trouble masquerades as Joy, but we recognize him before he plays one tune on the fiddle, for the fiddle strings snap, and the dancers fall down, and darkness drowns the lights.

Lay's Saturday Sale

January is the month when one needs the best and most nourishing meats the market affords to keep members of the family red-blooded and vigorous. When the home-comer returns tired and cold these evenings, there is nothing like sitting down to a nice roast of our pork, a toothsome steak, tender chops or a dish of Frankfurters. The primary aim of our business is to supply customers with the best cuts of meats at the lowest possible prices. Not less important to that aim in our eyes, is the maintenance of a spotlessly clean shop and persistent determination to use nothing but the best meats and spices in the making of our Bologna, Frankfurters, Sausages, Headcheese, etc. Give our products a trial if you want something extra fine.

THAW FAILS TO KILL HIMSELF

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Philadelphia, Jan. 12.—Harry K. Thaw will recover.

Physicians stated today that Thaw's attempt to take his own life yesterday would not prove fatal. After spending a comfortable night he awoke this morning with a desire to live.

"I am glad to be alive," Thaw whispered to a detective at his bedside and then fell again into a light sleep. He has refused to say anything about the charges standing against him.

A guard has been established and will maintain a watch over Thaw until he is able to leave the hospital, which the doctors say will be in about two weeks. He will then be taken to New York to answer to the indictment charging him with assault and kidnapping Frederick Gump, Jr., of Kansas City.

Bichloride of mercury tablets found in Thaw's possession have given rise to a belief that he may have taken poison before cutting his wrists, but thus far he has failed to show any signs of poisoning and the stomach pump has failed to show mercurial poisoning.

Mrs. George Lauder Carnegie, Thaw's sister, will arrive this afternoon and Dr. Walter Riddell, the family physician, and Frank Johnston, the family lawyer in New York, are here.

Samuel G. Maloney, private detective, has been summoned by the district attorney to explain why he aided Thaw to elude the police when he knew an indictment was standing against him.

Judge Cunningham Hears Claims. Judge of the Court of Claims William D. Cunningham is holding court in Poughkeepsie today hearing testimony in the case arising out of the death of Patrick McGrath, who was killed near the Hudson River State Hospital when his horse became frightened by a road roller. Mrs. McGrath, who was also hurt, asks $10,000 for personal injuries and $15,000 for her husband's death.

Woman's Assailant Sentenced. Cable Halsted, the Poughkeepsie truck driver who attempted attacks upon two Vassar students last November and also upon another girl last Saturday night, was sentenced to the maximum penalty under the law by Judge Morschauser in Poughkeepsie Thursday, an aggregate of 19 years and six months in Sing Sing prison. Halsted had entered a plea of guilty.

BEMROSE IS FREE OF THEFT CHARGE

Mail Clerk Arrested Near Kingston. Acquitted by Jury in New York. Many Witnesses for Prosecution.

Raymond J. Bemrose, the railway mail clerk whose arrest on a charge of robbing the mail was engineered by federal sleuths working out of the Kingston post office, was acquitted Wednesday by a jury in New York city and returned to his home in Goshen with his wife and counsel.

Assistant United States District Attorney Roosa conducted the prosecution. Bemrose was charged with embezzling three special delivery letters on his run between Kingston and Albany. The government had 15 witnesses and the defense called only character witnesses. The jury was out four hours. The trial lasted three days.

Louis Brown of the Brown Automobile Supply Company on Clinton avenue is in New York city attending the automobile show and looking over the new models. Mr. Brown is especially interested in the new accessories which are shown in connection with the show and will probably bring back some of the ideas for the comfort and convenience of the motorist. A great part of the show is devoted to automobile accessories and appliances and the two floors so occupied are of special interest to dealers who are looking for a new line of goods.

All attendance records for a Hudson Valley Automobile Show are likely to be broken ten days hence when Secretary of State Hugo opens the third Poughkeepsie exhibit at 2.30 p. m. Tuesday, January 23. A crowd of men distinguished in public life and in the motor world will give the local show a great send off. A. e. exhibits will be in place one hour before the opening and the electric lights will be turned on as the band starts playing, revealing a wonderful feature of which is a natural waterfall almost hidden in tropical foliage. The slogan, "Meet me at the Cascade" has been adopted for automobile show week. Four hundred of the leading society people of Dutchess, Ulster, Columbia, Orange and Putnam counties have consented to act as patrons and the famous Europe orchestra of New York city will play up to date dance music at the grand ball of January 29, the finale of the 1917 show.

Monday evening at the Holy Cross parish house the Poughkeepsie will play the Primrose Five. Games called at 8.15 o'clock. Following the game dancing will be enjoyed.

ANTI-STRIKE BILL WILL BE PUSHED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Washington, Jan. 12.—The unanimous protest of organized labor, voiced by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor and other labor leaders, will not deter the senate interstate commerce committee from pushing President Wilson's strike prevention proposal with all possible speed.

This was made clear today by an announcement by Senator Newlands, chairman of the committee, that he would ask the senate to adjourn tonight until Monday in order to give the committee a free hand in drafting the proposed legislation in final form for submission to the senate.

Senator Newlands hopes to report the bill on Monday and to obtain clear right of way for immediate consideration of the measure. There were indications that his hopes might be blocked, however, by the objection of Progressive Republicans, led by Senator Cummings, who have declared their intention of taking up the fight of organized labor against the bill.

The administration appeared to have sufficient control of the interstate commerce committee to insure a majority vote for the proposal to make strikes or lockouts unlawful for a period of four months pending investigation. So determined is the opposition to this proposal that Progressive Republicans openly declare their purpose to conduct a filibuster against it. The administration is ill-prepared for a filibuster since prolonged debate would make an extra session unavoidable.

Another Popular Saturday Night will be held that evening at the Y. M. C. A. when a fast game of basketball will be staged between the Central Five and the Primrose Five. There will be no admission charge and the public is invited. There will be a small charge for a reserved seat. Saturday afternoon two games will be played in the Y. M. C. A. Grammar School Basketball League. In the first game School No. 3 will clash with School No. 8, and in the second game St. Mary's School will clash with School No. 2.

Rev. Gulick Resigns. The Rev. George W. Gulick, pastor of the Ashokan Church, has resigned to take up Sunday school work in Westchester county. Mr. Gulick was also the superintendent of the Ulster County Sunday School Association. He has also resigned this office and is succeeded by the Rev. John Neander of Gardiner in the Ulster county Sunday school work.

SOCIETY NOTES.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. James Pine, 168 Tiempet avenue, was the scene of a very delightful little gathering Thursday evening when about 20 young people took it upon themselves to surprise Mr. and Mrs. Pine, and succeeded beyond their wildest hopes. The evening was spent in playing games and some very musical numbers were given by talented members of the party. Good fortune favored the occasion by having present a couple of well known amateur comedians, who were the main features of the entertainment. Refreshments were served at 12 and the party broke up at 11. Last night's trains "This is the end of a Petting Day."

A delightful surprise party was tendered Claude Hazard and daughter Jennie in honor of their birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and other amusements. Piano solos were enjoyed by all. Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Donken and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Schuberg and family, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heppner and family, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Hazard and family, Mr. Knapp and the Misses Elsie Lebert, Beatrice Lord, Clara Chase of Chester and Alfred Messenger. At about 11 o'clock the guests were ushered to the dining room, where a bountiful supper was enjoyed by all. In the wee small hours of the morning the guests departed to their home, leaving Mr. Hazard and daughter royal entertainers.

Sell Butter—Eat Oleo.

An amusing incident of this day, says the Downsville News, is to see in this day of high prices, a farmer, come to town and sell his butter for 28 and 40 cents a pound, and then buy and take home a lot of oleo for 27 cents. Although the farmers have fought the oleo business for years, they buy a lot of it, at least some of them do.

NEW TRAFFIC
LAW PROPOSED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Jan. 12.—The proposed state traffic act was introduced today by Assemblyman Clarence F. Wells. The bill was prepared by a special committee of the New York State Conference of Mayors.

The committee had conferences with the New York State Automobile Club, the state motor federation, mayors of cities, presidents of villages and the special committee of the up-state public service commission. Traffic of all kinds is regulated, trolleys, street cars and autos. It also contains provisions for the safety of pedestrians and for the suppression of unnecessary noises. Pedestrians have the right to cross the highways at street intersections, where they have the right of way over vehicles. At other points they shall do so at their own risk.

There are also regulations as to signals. Reckless driving is defined and speed limitations are cut out. Local authorities are permitted to make other ordinances and establish safety zones, cab stands and also to establish one way streets. Lines collected go to cities which pay an annual salary to the police magistrates.

Secret of His Success.

"He is a splendid workman. One secret of it, outside of his skill, is the good care he gives his tools. He keeps every one in the best condition, ready for instant use. Another secret is the care he takes of his best tools—brain, nerves and muscles. He never dulls them with liquor or tobacco, neither with harmful pleasures, idleness or carelessness. He gets the best service out of them and the tools which perform their bidding"—Exchange.

Get to the Front.

Here's an adage as old as Adam, but not as old as the sun: "The wise old birds don't gather in herds, but get there one by one." The motive of this is certain as the moral of it is true: If you would succeed you must take the lead, and leave the crowd to follow you.

HIGH SCHOOL FIVE DEFEATS HUDSON

Kingston high school's basketball team met and vanquished their hardest opposition of the season Thursday night in their gymnasium, defeating the strong school boys from Hudson by a score of 39 to 15. The close guard work of both teams featured.

Kiernan was sorely missed from his forward position, although Hallinan in making his debut on the varsity five put his best into the battle. The smooth machine-work of last week was missing, largely due, however, to the adhesive qualities of Hudson's guards. They stuck and almost hung to their opponents but Dolson managed to squeeze in six field baskets and Hallinan netted one.

Signals were of little avail to the locals on the jump at center and this greatly hindered their scoring. After having matters nearly their own way for four games, the sudden change from mediocre opponents to top-notchers took away to some extent Kingston's composure. As a result the basket-shooting was more hasty and ragged than usual. Only two field baskets were made by the Hudson team, thanks to the locals' steady defensive play, Hudson's listless offensive work and the interfering guards which greatly discourage visiting teams.

When the return game at Hudson takes place it's going to be a pretty tussle. Their team is well drilled and accustomed to long shots, which are almost impossible on Kingston's court. Hapeman and Pell, a colored fellow, played good games.

Dolson and Hapeman carried on a neck and neck foul-shooting match, the former being successful in nine of fourteen chances, the latter caging eleven of his eighteen throws.

Enthusiasm was high and the rooting lusty, under Aubrey Arndt's guidance. Music for the dancing after was played by Spalt's orchestra, a large number of dancers being present. The score:
